

ADMITS THORNDALE BANK HOLDUP

A heartening revelation is made this week in the published financial statement of the city of Cameron. This splendid showing of the fiscal condition of the city stands out in happy contrast to the extent municipalities, states and nations have gone in the last ten years in piling up burdensome debt.

Dan Tyson, city secretary and treasurer is responsible for this statement which everyone can understand. It gives you all details of the city's business, shows where your dollar goes and what it is spent for. Happily the tax payers of Cameron will be equally impressed by the splendid balances in the several funds including more than $10,000 to the credit of the general fund which is the operating account of the government.

More than $21,000 in balances to the credit of the several funds gives the city its most impressive financial showing within recent years. This financial condition is highly complimentary to Mayor Charles C. Smith and his Board of Aldermen. It tells a story of great care in the management of the city's business. To those citizens who have urged bond issues and other expenditures at a time when the Federal Government at Washington was spending money like drunken sailors, this commendable stage of the long journey through the depression may well be taken as proof that no government or business can survive long by spending more money than it takes in.

The city's total debt is approximately $127,000. Its assets under necessity levy might well be $4,500,000. No city in America can show a better financial slate. This condition should be guarded. We should think much before we spend and although the city is in need of a number of vital improvements, the time is not here when such programs should be undertaken, notwithstanding the fact that many disagree with the present conservative attitude of the city administration.

Our Town congratulates Mayor Smith, Mr. Tyson and the Board of Aldermen, the first and the latter for their excellent financial management and Mr. Tyson for his comprehensive, intelligent and understandable expose of every detail of the city's financial transactions.

This advertisement will be of much interest to citizens at large as well as those who have funds on deposit in savings accounts in Mr. Smith's bank.

VANDENBERG HAS CURE FOR U. S. BUSINESS

Syracuse, N. Y., June 5.—U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, asserted today that "if free enterprise, under the American system, were given a legitimately fair chance, we should be out of this depression in six victorious months."

Vandenberg, who recently announced his willingness to accept the Republican nomination for president in 1940, made his declaration in a commencement address at Syracuse University, where he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Recovery, Vandenberg said, can not be accomplished "under restrictive laws which stifle initiative, penalize thrift, discourage aspiration, throttle investment, kill confidence and harness the thwarted activities of citizenship in the straight-jacket of arbitrary government controls."

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Matula, daughter, and his sister, Miss Clara Matula, are expected to arrive home from their two weeks vacation. They went from here to Houston, journeyed across the states to California and the west coast.

City Marshal Gets $100 Check From U. S. For Arrest in 1937

Gene Smith, city marshal, Wednesday received a check for $100 from the United States Government as a reward for having captured Victor Lucio, Mexican almost two years ago.

Lucio was arrested in Bremont where he was working as an extra with a section gang on the railroad. He was charged with stealing a parcel post package from an express truck at the Santa Fe depot. Inspector Argain of the Post Office Department, requested Mr. Smith to assist him in locating the Mexican. Mr. Smith first went to Robstown but found that Lucio had left that place and when he later learned of his residence at Bremont, arrested him and placed him in the Milam county jail where he was taken by federal officers.

He was turned over to federal authorities on September 19, 1937. Mr. Smith has waited for almost two years for his reward but was very happy to receive the check for $100 on the treasury of the United States. Lucio entered a plea of guilt and was given six months in jail. He had a good reputation and said that he stole the package because he had been drinking.

Deputy Sheriff Clarence McCall told the Herald at 6 o'clock Thursday evening that he had talked with the sheriff at Hallettsville and was told that Ralph Gresham of Boling in Wharton county had confessed to the robbery of the Thorndale State Bank.

Gresham was captured in Wharton county by state police. Shortly before noon Wednesday he robbed the People's State Bank at Hallettsville of $1200. He robbed the Thorndale State Bank of $1350. He was identified by finger prints and by descriptions given by cashiers of both banks. In his confession, said Deputy McCall, he told of the Thorndale robbery, making a complete statement about both robberies.

City Finances Impressive Result of Good Management

The city of Cameron submits evidence this week of the strength of its financial position among the cities of the United States.

City Secretary and Treasurer Dan Tyson makes his annual report of the financial condition of the city in the most comprehensive detail yet compiled for any year in the history of the city. This statement published in Cameron's weekly newspapers today is a tribute to the ability of Mr. Tyson not only to interpret in terms of thorough understanding the annual large volume of city transactions, but discloses that he is doing a masterful job in keeping the records of Cameron.

Recently a widely known bond buying firm in New York City said that the credit of Cameron is the most desirable of any city in the United States. This can be readily understood by the tax payer and property owner when he reads the statement just issued by Mr. Tyson for the city government. The total bonded debt of the city of Cameron is $127,300. Few if any incorporated towns in the United States enjoy a better financial position. The taxable values in Cameron are approximately $3,000,000. These values could be increased materially if necessity arises thus giving the city assets totaling approximately $4,500,000 with only a $127,000 debt.

It is interesting to note that in the general fund of the city the balance is $10,998.18. Including the sinking fund for bond paying purposes and the general fund the total cash balance of the city on March 31, 1939, was $21,815.72.

TEMPLE VS. DEBT

By State Press in Dallas News.

Whither are we drifting? Right here in Texas we find the city of Temple voting against an issue of bonds to duplicate a service it is already enjoying. The proposal was to issue $850,000 in bonds and use the money to install a municipal light and power plant. The result of the election added up to more than 2 to 1 against the proposal. This result looks like a criticism of the new deal and the new dealers. The new dealers are a reading tribe. They get a great deal of inspiration from books, but not much from experience. From Washington all the way down to Kickapoo the new dealers have told how persistent spending and increasing debt will combine eventually to achieve the impossible. The majority at Temple manifested a disposition toward disbelief. They refused to consent to a heavy addition of bonded indebtedness in order to prove the new deal theory correct. They looked about them and discovered no scarcity of light and power. It was available at the turn of a wall switch. But the light and power were being manufactured and distributed by a corporation owned and financed by individuals. In the view of the majority that was wrong. Individual and corporate enterprise does not appeal to the book readers, who have convinced themselves from their reading that true economy consists of debt, that genuine progress is born of municipal, state and national politics. "Let us have politics in full control," they say in effect, "and life will be cheaper, grander, sweeter." They only half believe what they teach, but in a case of decision they feel obliged to register their loyalty to a theory which puts them to sleep at night and sings lullabies to them in dreamland. It is idle to tell the new dealers that this continent was made habitable by individuals who put their own muscle, their own money and their own enterprise into improvements. They had before them the example of the aborigines, who moved with the grass and the game and lived communal lives, feasting in summer and starving in winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schiller, are enjoying a week's vacation that took them to the Rio Grande Valley and other south Texas points.

Mrs. Bob Barnett and two boys, David and Bobbie of Baytown, are here on a visit with her mother, Mrs. Lottie Bigbee at the Bigbee house.

Fuchs Bros. to Build Poultry Industry for Large Scale Income

A poultry foundation to provide for a wide scale development of better grade flocks for Milam county and one that guarantees a balanced farm income has been established by Fuchs Bros. on a 21 acre site near Ad Hall on Highway 36.

The new home of the Fuchs Bros. poultry industry is ideal from several viewpoints on a scale to give Milam county over the farm conducted at Buckholts for several years and is a production of eggs and chickens that will place this section definitely in the large producing areas of the country.

With the view of giving some constructive interpretation to the Fuchs poultry foundation, a representative of the Herald spent several hours last week looking over this farm and to understand the purpose behind such a large investment.

The 21 acres reach along the highway, are ideally drained and give the poultry flocks the advantage of the more widely recognized sites for such an industry. At present Fuchs Bros. have five laying houses, 740 White Leghorn pullets and 120 Rhode Island Red pullets.

The usual conception of a poultry farm to the uninformed is that chickens are produced for sale. This is not the case with the Fuchs Bros. farm. In addition to the pullets they have 360 White Leghorn hens and 100 Rhode Island Reds. At the present time they are producing a half-million eggs a year. With the acreage involved in the set-up, Fuchs Bros. can ultimately expand their farm to 5,000 layers. This

Rockdale Man Finds Resisting Patrolman A Risk of Prestige

D. A. McGonagill, highway patrolman, stationed in Cameron, was doubly effective in the line of duty Sunday afternoon in the regal city of Rockdale where violence often flares up. The legal result of Patrolman McGonagill's assertion of duty finds Sylvester Brumbelow, a garage operator, in the Milam county jail facing three charges: Speeding, hogging the highway and resisting an officer.

According to information received by The Midget, Brumbelow was accosted about one mile from the city limits of Rockdale and was chased into the city by Patrolman McGonagill and as he got out of his car he attacked the officer. The struggle took both men almost across the main street of Rockdale and Brumbelow was thoroughly and legally subdued, the visible results of the encounter being a sufficient number of skins, pump knots and old-fashioned Texas bruises. The officer escaped injury but Brumbelow showed considerable results of his attempt to battle the officer.

Texas high way law violations are becoming a menace, it was pointed out here today. The people of Milam county appreciate the fine record of Patrolman D. A. McGonagill and D. R. Enoch, both of whom live in the city of Cameron.

All city funds are deposited in the Citizens National Bank of Cameron, Texas. This bank is the legally designated City Depository and has furnished to the City Council a good and sufficient bond in the sum of $50,000.00 for the securing of said funds.

I have endeavored to compile in a comprehensive manner the above statement, showing in detail as far as possible the status of the City's financial condition at the close of business, March 31st, 1939. I have in most instances shown all receipts and disbursements separately, particularly the major items. In some cases, (in order to economize space and save expense) I have condensed some of the minor transactions.

If the set-up of the statement, figures and arrangement of same are difficult or complicated and not readily interpreted, either as relates to the general fund items of receipts and disbursements, or various bond and sinking fund accounts, special accounts, etc., I shall be very glad to explain and verify if requested to do so.

Very truly,

TEXAS BOOK PRINTS SKETCH REESE TURNER

The State of Texas book will have the enclosed sketch of Representative Reese Turner in its 1939 edition. Reese Turner of Cameron, Milam County, in the prime of his life, is giving his best to his state as a member of the House of Representatives of the 46th Texas Legislature.

He was born in Cameron on April 17, 1909, the son of Arvis R. and Bertha Turner. A farmer, he is a stalwart champion of the interests of agriculture in this agricultural empire, believing with the immortal Sam Houston, "the Great Defender," that when the farmers prosper the people are happy. His ear is ever inclined to the longings and hopes of the common people whose devotions and energy have elevated Texas to her proud position in the sisterhood of states.

Although this is his first term in the legislature, he has been fast in "getting on to the ropes" and in acquainting himself with the perplexing "red tape" which so often enmeshes new members. As a result, his constituency have been fortunate in his outstanding services. When the history of the 46th session is finally written, the name of this splendid young Texan will stand out among those who rendered acceptable, honest and vigilant service.

Mr. Turner is readily identified as a conservative in the House of Representatives. He rises in opposition to every proposal that would entail excessive expenditure of public funds or levy an undue burden upon the tax paying public; and he ever sounds a warning note against the rapid increase in the number of government agencies and the overlapping duties of the various boards and bureaus.

His major interests in the current session have included school legislation, social security, the county road bond assumption bill, the state soil conservation bill, and all measures designed to benefit the farmers, laborers and business people of the state. As a member of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, he assisted in formulating the provisions of House Joint Resolution 16 and Senate Joint Resolution 12, each of which proposed an amendment to the constitution providing for the financing and administration of old age assistance, teacher retirement, and assistance for needy children and the blind. His membership on the Committee on Education places him in a position to render unlimited services in behalf of the school system; and he takes an active part in school legislation.

Besides Constitutional Amendments and Education, Mr. Turner's committee assignments include Highways and Motor Traffic and Encroached Bills.

One of the outstanding characteristics of this popular member is his loyalty and devotion to his district. His every action in the Legislature is guided by the needs and the desires of the majority of his constituents; and through him Milam County has obtained recognition in the Capital City second to that of no other county in the state. The people of the Sixty-fourth Representative District are proud of him; and he, in turn, is proud of his people and his district.

Following graduation in the public schools of his home-town, he studied two years in Evansville College, Indiana, and two years in Rutgers University, New Jersey. He is married to Mildred Burnett, also of Milam County. He is a member of the Methodist Church and is active always in the affairs of his community and state.

BADLY INJURED

George Avery, aged negro and former transfer line operator, who was struck by an automobile on June 3, was reported by officers here to be making slow progress.

Collects $2900 From Insurance Company

The Hartford Accident Indemnity Company paid James Fletcher $2,900 in an agreed judgment Saturday before the case was to be tried in district court here Monday.

The case grew out of an accident in which Fletcher received a fractured skull when a truck in which he was delivering beer turned over in Burlington on October 2, 1938.

Fletcher had received the weekly compensation established by the Industrial Accident Board of Austin for a period of 17 weeks. The company offered to settle with payment of slightly over $400.

Misses Kathryn Terry and Estelle Clarke and Mott Terry spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Terry of Yarrallton.

Joe Cahill, prominent citizen of Burlington is a patient in the Cameron hospital.

Dewey McCall of Yarrallton was a Cameron visitor Saturday.

MARRY IN JANUARY

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Juanita Laake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laake, Jr., to Cecil Starr of Houston on January 2, 1939, was made this week by the bride's parents.

The bride, a well known Cameron girl, was graduated from Houston business college this month. It was while in school she met Mr. Starr who is employed with the Hudson Furniture Company.

Many local friends of the bride are joining others over the state in wishing for the couple a future of happiness and contentment.

Mr. and Mrs. John Noff, their sons, Clyde and Houston Dyer and brother, Robert Key of Cameron will attend the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Key at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Robinson of Rockdale on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Key are pioneer citizens of Milam county and lived in Cameron until a few weeks ago when they moved to Rockdale. Mrs. Noff has baked the wedding cake, a beautiful three tiered cake iced in white with a tiny bride and groom standing in the center with a golden wedding bell overhead. A golden arch to which a satin bow with flowers adds an attractive touch.

Miles Wasson, Field Representative for the Veteran's State Service Office said he contacted twenty veterans, widows of veterans and mothers yesterday. Mr. Wasson plans to make a visit here every four months and the purpose is to assist veterans and their dependents in securing their compensation and other benefits. One application for hospital treatment was filed.

RECOVERS $2,900

James Fletcher was paid $2,900 late Friday when a suit he had filed against Hartford Accident Indemnity Company was settled out of court. Fletcher was injured when a beer truck overturned near Burlington, October 25, 1938.

FIREMEN TO CONVENTION

Local firemen will leave Sunday morning for a State Firemen's and Fire Marshal's Convention to be held in Harlingen. Joe Richter, fire marshal, August Horstmann, delegate, John Eans, assistant chief and the racing team composed of Oscar Schiller, Frank Ermis, Jerry Mikula, Pete Mikula, Albert Richter, Frank Richter, Sr., and Frank Richter, Jr. They plan to be gone all next week and will on their return trip go through Corpus Christi.

BOK SINGING TOWER

In the heart of Florida's scenic highlands, atop Iron Mountain, one of its highest points, stands this magnificent bell tower of the Old World, carrying a powerful beacon for airmen, a curious mixture of old associations and modern utility. Fifty-one feet wide at its granite base, its octagonal face of pink Georgia marble rises 205 feet, holds one of the largest and, perhaps, the finest carillon in the world. Sixty-one bells weighing 123,164 pounds, the largest being over 11 tons, comprise four octaves, 48 tones, surpassing in power and brill'ance any other set of chimes. Completed in 1929, the "Singing Tower" was built by Edward Bok and donated to his adopted country.

Firestone
CHAMPION TIRES

FIRESTONE WINS 26th Consecutive Victory In Indianapolis 500-Mile Race

A merciless sun beat down upon the speedway as Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Champion Tires. The blistering brick of the main stretch and the granite-hard surface of the turns and the back stretch put tire safety to the test supreme! Record after record was shattered. Speeds reached as high as 160 miles an hour on the straightaways, as 33 of the fastest drivers in the world waged a breath-taking battle for gold and glory.

Never before in all the history of the motor car have tires been put to such a tortuous test. And never before has any tire so firmly established itself as a Champion in construction and performance, as well as in name. Here is dramatic proof of the extra strength which the revolutionary new Safety-Lock cord body provides in Firestone Champion Tires—of the extra protection against blowouts assured by the new and advanced Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process—of the extra mileage resulting from the tougher, wear-resisting rubber compounds in the sensational new Gear-Trip tread.

No longer can there be any question of which tire is safest. One tire—and only one—provides these exclusive safety construction features. One tire—and only one—has been on the winning cars at Indianapolis for 20 consecutive years. Motor car manufacturers enthusiastically adopted the Firestone Champion Tire for their 1939 models. Order your new car equipped with this amazing tire. Or drive in and let us equip your present car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires, the one tire—and only one that is safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

The Good Neighbor Policy

SALUTATORY ADDRESS

By Dorothy Perkins

It is my privilege to welcome you, members of the Board, faculty, student friends, parents and visitors to our exercises this evening. We invite you to think with us of our achievements and our aims as we celebrate the conclusion of our high school careers.

Our accomplishments during our school lives have been many and varied. And we realize that we could not have achieved any measure of success but for the united efforts of every student. In a democratic nation, we are working as a small part of that nation's system. We depened upon equalization of rights, unanimity of purpose, and solidarity of action to maintain our school as a small democracy.

Among the nations of the world today, there is virtually no peace and very little contentment. To a pessimistic person, the autocracies are beginning to overshadow the democracies. It is becoming more evident every day that there can be no satisfaction among nations; that races will continue to war against each other regardless of the outcome or effects of warfare. It is a sad and gloomy picture that is presented to us by the great empires to the east and west of us. Even the Holy Land itself is aflame with revolt and civil war; the dictators in Europe are still bragging and bullying their neighbors and making gross threats to the smaller nations around.

In this confused situation, the Americas stand out as a haven of refuge to those seeking peace. By the grace of providence and the foresight and endeavor of our country's leaders, we are living in a nation free from war. Even though the European and Asiatic nations may be rife with turmoil, the twenty-one American republics appear as a united land in an embittered world. Each one is at peace with one another and intends to remain so. This peace and unity is maintained by a principle of government designed to promote peace, "The Good Neighbor Policy."

First enunciated by President Roosevelt in his inaugural address in 1932, the Good Neighbor Policy has since made world history. By means of this policy, the American nations have created perfect understanding and peace among themselves.

This, to European nations, is inconceivable. Even the results of the last Pan-American Conference held in Lima, Peru, in December, were denounced as a failure by Nazi press agents. The great Declaration of Lima, assuring for the American people their continued protection and reaffirming their purpose of defense against intervention, failed to impress our over-seas editors. Yet the results of this last conference have shown a number of things to the American people; that they can be sure of their safety in case of intervention by outside powers; that they are members of a union banded together for a common cause and pledged to support that cause; that their problems as a country will ever be settled by peaceful arbitration; and, last, that their decisions will be made by unanimous vote and not by majority rule.

These, then, are the principles of the Good Neighbor Policy; these are the statutes upon which we live together, as American nations, peacefully. And these are, too, in a smaller way, the laws by which we govern our school and maintain its solidarity. You may think that we have no major difficulties, as boundary controversies, or racial differences, but we do. There are as many as six different nationalities of children attending our school; so we have our racial difficulties to solve. And among these are Protestants, Catholics and Lutherans, and this brings forth the problem of religious differences. Furthermore, we have problems of social and economic distinctions, majority rule, group and individual domination, and many others, which threaten to disrupt the harmony in our school.

So you see that in order to apply the principles of the Good Neighbor Policy among the American nations, we must first learn to apply them in our homes and in our school. Thus, it is necessary that we, as school children, adhere to these maxims of good government in our school work, to better maintain them in our nation. When we have best mastered these few essentials of how to live among ourselves in school, then we can be assured of continued peace and unity in our nation.

Poultry Farm

would give them around 1,250,000 eggs per year.

All eggs produced on this farm are brought to the Fuchs Bros. Ideal Hatchery in Cameron, hatched and sold to flock owners. In this way the farm becomes a foundation for the production of the better grade poultry and insures for the immediate future a high standard of quality for flock owners throughout this section. The benefits to accrue from this system will result in a greater egg production by flock owners because eggs constitute the major revenue from chickens. Eventually Fuchs Bros. can foresee an enormous hatchery demand for the high bred quality chickens they are producing from eggs taken from their foundation farm.

The hatchery is a source of revenue and this year the plant in Cameron will have produced approximately 250,000 baby chicks.

Looking over the flock at the foundation farm the writer was shown 65 cockrels which Mr. Fuchs recently purchased from W. A. Zidell, nationally known breeder in San Antonio and one of the largest producers in America. These cockrels are record of performance bred, and their records show from 280 to 341 per year strain. In another section of the farm were seen some three and one-half months old pullets now beginning to lay. The laying houses are all constructed on the modern plan to keep out parasites, one of the big problems of chicken producers. Mr. Fuchs told the writer that his estimate is that sixty cents is the cost to bring a baby chick up to the producing stage as a laying pullet. He also estimates a conservative value on each pullet to be approximately one dollar, as a market possibility. Actually the pullet will almost produce her weight in gold because the strain of layers run as high as 341 eggs per year, from which strain he takes his foundation stock, will produce in one year's time about twenty-five dozen eggs.

The laying hen reaches her maximum of production in the first year and after that their production is not as large but Mr. Fuchs said that the older hens give better chicks from their eggs. In another section of the farm was observed 300 chicks recently produced from Zidell of San Antonio from a 270 to 300 strain layers.

Cockrels produced from this farm are given in limited numbers to flock owners for breeding better chickens. The type of chickens from which flock owners are to get their foundation birds cost 48 cents each at one day old. Cockrels are banded with aluminum bands for identification and for grading flocks and keeping records on production. Eggs thus produced are bought from flock owners at a much better price than would be paid otherwise because the cockrels are from large producing strain.

Producing blood-tested chickens has brought about at the Fuchs farm a minimum in loss to flock owners. During the first year the Fuchs Bros. instituted the blood-testing system, records show that the loss was 12% or 12 out of 100 chicks. This figure was reduced to 7 out of 100 and recently a record kept on the Robert Jungmann farm near Yarrrellton showed only one disease carrier out of 175 chicks.

The old farm idea of comfort for chickens is obsolete. There are no shade trees on the Fuchs farm. Trees are breeding places for parasites and diseases that take a heavy annual toll of chickens. The open type of farm reduces parasites and disease possibilities to the barest minimum. Each yard at the farm is fifty yards square and these are cut in half so as to be rotating and to permit small plantings of green feed like oats and sudan. In the of-

CALL FOR BIDS

The Commissioners' Court of Milam County will open bids at the Court House at 10:00 a. m. on Tuesday, June 27, 1939, for the construction of a steel bridge over Big Bear Creek on the Salem Road about three miles south of Cameron, Texas.

The plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the County Auditor.

All sealed bids are to be delivered to the County Judge on or before the above mentioned hour.

rice at the farm is kept a complete record of the production of every hen. The laying houses are 20x22 feet and 6 of these are to be had within a short time. A little known truth about egg production in America is that the present time and for years past millions of eggs are imported from Japan and resold to American homes. The Japanese egg trade is rather extensive along the eastern seaboard. On the floor of these laying houses straw approximately six inches deep is kept in freshness and through it is scattered feed. The hens are usually singing about their business because they scratch in the straw to find the grain and thus exercise and work contribute to a greater production of eggs. No longer does the producer of eggs for the great American breakfast find it necessary to make a nest in the chimney corner or in an obsolete coop back of the barn. She now has a modern home including all sanitary equipment, plenty of clean drinking water, a house with windows and doors properly ventilated and so arranged as to give the best possible exposure for protection against cold and a maximum of fresh air. Such modern conveniences have been proven to be indispensable to greater egg and poultry production.

Of especial interest in connection with the Fuchs poultry farm is poultry disease control. Theo Fuchs and Fritz Heintze, the former part owner of the farm and the latter an employee at the local hatchery, have completed a scientific study of poultry diseases. This service is given free to flock owners and both Mr. Heintze and Mr. Fuchs are glad at any time to give assistance. The other member of the Fuchs Bros. foundation is Leo Fuchs. He is assistant cashier in the Buckholts State Bank. Fuchs Bros. also sell the Purina line of poultry feeds with heavy stocks in Cameron and Buckholts.
